SOUTHWOLD: A SOCIETY NOVEL. By Mas. LILLIE DEVEREUX UMSTED. Ore volume, 12mo., mus'in. Price, $1.

"Southwold is a fiction of much more than ordinary ven the thoroughly blase novel-reader cannot fail to be ested in it.

"It is written with care and elegance, indicative of a refined and cultivate d taste, while there is a vivacity sparkling through every page that relieves it from the heaviness of mere rhetorical elaboration. The plot, without shocking probabilities, is original and no reader can unspect the denomenent until gratified and startled by the hold it takes upon the imagination. Insident follows incident in natural progression, and the interest completely arcused and absorbed, is never for an instant suffered to flag."

SOUTHWOLD;
THE NEW Novel.
"A great charm of the work is the admirable defineation of character and the number of sprightly conversations that present to the mind each scene vividly, as a perfect reality, whether

in the DRAWING ROOM,

OR OFERA.

"The society of which it treats is that of American gentlefolks, described with tact and truth, and an easy familiarity, entirely free from either vulgar ignorance or stilted exaggeration.

As a rockety novel, it is, with shadly an exception, one of the most consummately managed and alluring books which we have ever read."

A CAPITAL ENGLISH BOOK. A NEW SCHOOL TALE: ERIC: OR, LITTLE BY LITTLE. A TALE OF BOSLYN SCHOOL.

(Reprinted from the English Edition.) BY PREDERICK W. PARRER. (Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge). 1 Vol., 12mo. Muelin. Price $1.

OPINIONS OF THE ENGLISH PRESS:
From The Morning Chronicle.
The reader ingering over these pages is recalled, as if by enaturement, to the days of scholastic boyhood. No book since the advent of TOM BROWN'S SCHOOL-DAYS AT RUGBY

bes given such an admirable picture of inner school life volume before us."

From The London Literary Gazette.

White placement to preface our notice of this work by a genu "It is pleasant to preface our notice of this work by a genuine conviction that it is one of the most charming and touching of books that it has ever been our lot to read. Written apparently for the immediate perusal of that class of readers more penaliarly identified with the principal characters described, yet the book is one which appeals most powerfully to the hearts of all who have hearts to feel and minds to think. Apartfrom its general tendency, from which an admirable moral may be derived, the powerful and diversified interest of the tale itself cannot fail of luring on from page to page the feelings of curiosity and the reader."

From The London Daily News.

"As a story, Exic has the important quality of being interest-ig. No one who begins it is likely to leave it unfinished."

From The Lendon Guardian.

"Apart from the interest, the story will commend itself by its touching narrative of temptation and sorrow, and its solemn illustration of the early strile between good and evil, to all who remember the days of their youth, or feel for the generation which succeeds them in the journey of life."

From The London Economist.

"We cannot quit the volume without recommending it to the perusal of parents and schoolmasters."

ERIC:

OR, LITTLE BY LITTLE.

From the London Westminster Review. "Every pater familias would consult his own and his children' interests by furnishing them with an of portunity of perusing it. TO BOOKSELLERS

The extraordinary popularity of this capital tale of School-life, and its surprising raie in England, cannot fail to make it a work much sought after and of standard merit in this country, where the success of "SCHOOL DAYS AT RUGBY" has become a certainty. The publishers, therefore, feel no apprehension in urging Booksellers to order ERIC in large quantities. The book is printed with large, clear type, upon fine calendered paper, and is issued with particularly handsome and attractive exterior.

From the London Edition.

From The Portland Transcript.

We are glad to get boild of a copy of this book. The notices of it in the English Reviewshad prepared us to find it one of the most interesting works on Natural History yet published, and we have not been disappointed. The author, the son of the late celebrated geologist, Dr. Buckland, is a close observer, and gives the results of his observations in a lively, popular style."

From The Philadelphia Saturday Post.

"A gay book of science, showing up in a lively, colloquial way, the nature, habits and characteristics of beasts, birds and fishes. The author, well known in Engiand both as an industrious scientifician and a cashing young surgeon in the Life Guarda, proveshimself in this work to be, not only a clever humorist, but a minute and accurate observer."

SECOND: ETHEL'S LOVE-LIFE.

By Mrs. M. J. M. Sweat.

I vel., 12mo., muslin. Price $1.

From The New-York Home Journal.

"This charming volume is a series of love letters, written by Ethel to her betrothed, giving the history of her affairs of the beest, from early girlhood up to the time that she and her affanced meet no more to be parted. No love-letters since the days of a belard and Heloise have appeared, that are more sweetly attractive, or come home closer to the heart of all than those contained in this volume. Each letter is a love poem told in proce—a passage from the book of a maiden's heart."

in prose—a passage from the book of a maiden's hear?

ETHEL'S LOVE-LIFE.

"This little history of the deep and fathomless experiences of a buman heart is contained in the form of a series of letter, and is the fresheet and most captivaling reading we have had this long time. It is no mere remiiment, but the records—amply, troly and most exquisitely set down—of a profount and air-absorbing Love.

"Its authoriess may consider her mark in literature made. Such a volume is not an every day production; it contains the secred and profound experiences of a truly noble, and rich, and beautiful soul. We heartily commend its perusal to all those who know, or seek to know, aught of the deep mysteries and the eternal realities of Love."

Just Published: MORALITY AND THE STATE

1 Vol. 12mo. 469 pp. 41 25.

This work discusses questions of the deepest import: What are the true grounds of Morality and the State! Is there any Obligation in the one or Right in the other ! The subject is pre-Beginning with an analysis of human consciousness for the ground of practical merality, the writer works out into the idea of a God as the ground of objective truth-of absolute verity, The morality of man, as man underlies the State; and therefore if the morality of the individual is divine, so is the State. OFFICE OF BOARD OF SUPERVISIONS, }

NEW-YORK, February 15, 1859.

M ESSAGE FROM the MAYOR.—The follow-ling was received from the Mayor, and directed to be published in one or more newspapers employed by the souncy.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, New-York, February 2, 1859.

To the Honorable the Board of Supervisors:

GENTLEMEN: The resolution adopted by your Honorable Bedy, requesting the Controller to give such instructions to the Receiver of Taxes as will effectually check the mutilation under the action of the Common Goundi of the tax fates after having been approved by the Supervisors; is herewith returned with my objections to the same.

The design of this resolution would seem to be for the purpose of preventing suy action of the Common Council in relation to the remission of taxes being carried into effect. There can be no doubt that the law has riven or intended to give to the Supervisors the power of remitting or reducing taxes until the period of six months after the confirmation thereof; but, after that time, it seems to me that the Common Council have the right to exercise such power. At least, it has been waveleded by them for a period as long as any record of their proposedings exist. It was always exercised, even from immediately after the confirmation of the taxes, until the passage of the act of 1859, then the superiod and the supervisors may remit or reduce a tax imposed, as prescribed by law. for good cames shown by affidevit, taken before an officer authorized to administer onths in the City of New-Fork, and fried by them must be made before the collection of the tax Commissioner, and such reduction or remission must be made before the collection of such tax.

But this section, it will be seen, limits the period that the Beard of Supervisors may act until six months after the confirmation of the tax.

It cases then, where errors are afterward discovered by assessing the same property twire, as mas been intercatione does. In accertained mistakes, there should no doubt be some power to correct the same.

This has been always exercised by the Commen Gouncil, and the amendment made by the Legislature to the above smouth one section (Law of 181), chapter 3:9), by inserting at the conclusion thereof the following words: "And when under the provisions of the existing laws, any remissions of taxes shall be made by the Common Council of said city, the afficient of the person applying shall be in life munner filed with the Commissioner of Taxes," would seem to admit the exercise of this right.

The question, however, is one which, until I am clearly satisfied that the Common Council have no power in these matters, will not warrant my approval of any resolution of the case set of the one which I herewith return.

DANIEL F. TIEMANN, Mayor.
